The Economist

An index of tangible alternative asset classes compiled by Knight Frank, a consultancy, shows that returns in rare coins over 10 years to the end of 2016 were 195%

Easily beating:

- ◆ art (139%)
- ◆ stamps (133%)
- ◆ furniture (-31%)
- ◆ 500 index (58%)

Coins are more portable than paintings or furniture and boost a higher value-to-volume ratio. Stamps may be lighter, but, come doomsday, cannot be melted down.
